Jakob de Boer (b. 1974, Canada) began his career in the Film & Television arena, producing and directing over 100 episodes of television, and as a prototype tester with Leica Camera. De Boer's work as a fine art photographer has been exhibited in Italy, Australia, Canada, Germany and the United States. A passion for the art of printmaking has led to his study of various darkroom techniques with a number of renowned printmakers. Where Raven's Cry is de Boer's largest body of work to date, made during a two-year period in Canada's Pacific Northwest. De Boer divides his time between Toronto and Paris.
